JAPS WILL START THIS WEEK.

DETERMINED TO RELIEVE PEKIN.

With Their 20,000 Troops and the International Troops Numbering 10,000 the Japanese Commander-in-Chief Will Go Straight for Pekin—The Situation is Thought to be Improving—The Empress Decides to Help Foreigners.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, July 10.—At the Japanese legation it is stated that the advance on Pekin by the Japanese army of 20,000 men will begin this week. It is officially asserted that the Japanese have no intention of halting at Taku or Tien-Tsin, but propose to advance upon Pekin during this week. Their military authorities express the opinion that 10,000 of their troops, with the addition of 10,000 international troops already available, will suffice to force an entry into the Chinese capital, with the Japanese general as commander-in-chief.

A dispatch sent by Li Hung Chang to the Chinese minister at Berlin says that three thousand Chinese rebels have been killed in the streets of Pekin. The supposed slaughter occurred between the troops of Prince Ching and the troops and Boxers under Prince Tuan.

EMPRESS SAYS PROTECT FOREIGNERS AT ANY COST.

Shanghai, July 10—News from official sources received at ten o'clock last night is to the effect that the Empress Dowager had, June 30, resumed the reins of government and appointed Yung Lu prime minister. It is said she sent a dispatch to Pekin by a courier at the rate of a hundred miles per day, thanking the vice-roys of the Yang-Si-Kiang provinces for their loyalty and recommending that they protect foreigners at any cost.

Yung Lu resumed control of the government on June 15th. Tuan with the rebels retired to the suburbs of Pekin July 2.

MACARTHUR SENDS MORE TROOPS.

Washington, July 10 —The Department of State made public this morning a dispatch from Goodnow council at Shanghai, stating that it is given out by the Governor of Shantung that the legations were standing July 5, and that the out-laws were dispersing. He adds that this statement does not obtain general credence.

Gen. MacArthur cables that the ourteenth United States infantry and fifth United States artillery will leave Manila on the tairteenth for Taku. He recommends that another regiment, the first to leave the United States, should be despatched to Taku.

THINKS THE WORST OVER.

San Francisco, July 10.—Sir Fraglie A. Swettenham, resident general from the Malay States, has arrived here. He was at Tien-Tsin as late as June 5, and says: "While the conditions are no doubt serious, I think the Boxer movement has reached and passed its climax, now that the foreign nations have begun to assemble troops at the door of China. The most serious trouble at present, and for some time to come probably, is the insurrection already arisen, as a result of the Boxer rising. General Nich, who was the first man to go against the Boxers, is now at Tien-Tsin helping to protect foreigners and he is assisted by many Chinese."

The States in Which the Campaign Will be Fought.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Chicago, July 10.—National Chairman Jones, Ex-Gov. Stone, Chairman Johnson, of the Democratic national executive committee, are expected here from Lincoln today. Chicago will be headquarters for the national committee. It seems to be the opinion among local Democrats that the campaign will be fought in Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan Minnesota.

After the Delinquents.

Sheriff Gilmer is going after the delinquent taxpayers. A great many have not paid their taxes for the year 1899, and these are being notified that unless the amounts are paid within ten days from the date of notification a sufficient amount of property to satisfy the claims will be levied upon and sold. The law is more rigid than formerly on this point, the sheriff being compelled to make collections.

WOMEN SIGN THE PETITION.

An Appeal by the Women of Greensboro to the Voters of Guilford County and to the Women of the County.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

The following appeal has been signed last night and today by 539 Christian women of Greensboro. The women of the city have joined in this appeal almost unanimously:

"We, the undersigned Christian women of Greensboro, are deeply interested in the welfare of our boys and young men. They are in many respects the most important, as they are the most easily influenced class of our people. The saloons and hotel bars offer to them numerous and powerful temptations not offered in the dispensary. These places of vice are made as attractive as possible. By every imaginable allurement of night hours, secrecy, treating, pictures, music, games, and the like, they seek to tempt young men to enter their inviting portals. Social drinking, which is the custom in open saloons, and especially hotel bars, and which is so common a beginning of moral ruin, is perhaps the greatest of the many evils which accompany the saloon system, but which are not found in the dispensary. Since the overthrow of the dispensary means a return of the saloons and hotel bars, which would be nothing short of a moral disaster to our community, we, therefore, the Christian women of Greensboro, do most earnestly beseech the men of Guilford county to vote for the dispensary as against the saloon. We also appeal to our sisters, the good women of Guilford county, to assist us in every way possible in this our struggle against the powers of evil."

STILL IN DEATH.

Col. J. D. Kase Passes Away After a Brief Illness.

Col. James D. Kase died at his home, 427 Arlington street, last evening at 8 o'clock, after an illness of three weeks. It was not generally known that he was critically ill, and the news of his death carried sorrow to many hearts.

The funeral will take place at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, the service being conducted by Rev. Dr. E. W. Smith. Interment will be made in Greene Hill cemetery.

Col. Kase was born in Northumberland county, Pa., September 21st, 1834, and would have been 66 years old at his next birthday. With his family, he moved to Greensboro nine years ago, coming here as manager of the North Carolina Steel and Iron Company. He was for many years engaged in the iron business and was an expert in his line.

Coming to Greensboro as an entire stranger, he soon made many and lasting friends, who were drawn to him by his affable manner and genial disposition. These feel a personal loss in his death.

Col. Kase leaves a widow and six children—Mrs. Voorhees, of Albany, N. Y.; Mr. Walter Kase, of West Virginia; Mrs. Carrington, of Virginia, and Misses Nellie and Mabel and Mr. DeWitt Kase.

A Truant Boy Found.

Chief of Police Scott yesterday received a letter from Mr. T. J. Rabe, of Salisbury, asking him to look out for his 16-year-old son Willie, who left home in company with another boy Sunday. The truant boy was found this morning and taken in charge by Chief Scott. He will be sent home this evening.

The boy grew tired of the monotony of home life and says he started out to see the world.

A Fox Hunt.

Messrs. A. F. Brooks, S. E. Hudson and W. C. Whitworth had some fun last night chasing a fox on Mr. Cone's farm, east of Proximity. The chase was kept up from 10:30 until past 12 o'clock, when the trail was abandoned.

The fox was shipped to Mr. Whitworth from Tennessee some time ago and escaped last week. It is a large specimen.

NEGRO AND THE AMENDMENT.

A CALM STATEMENT BY ONE OF THEM.

Prof. Dudley Protests Against Charging up to the Race the Foolish Utterances of Individuals, Which are no More Representative Than Brutal Acts of Whites are Representative of the Race—The Negro Recognizes the Superior Power of the Whites and Defers to It—They Will Vote a Dignified Protest Against the Amendment, and Many of Them Will Quietly Seek Other Homes.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

I trust it is pure and simple supererogation for me to assure your readers that the sentiment actuating such expressions as made by Wharton "that if the constitutional amendment is adopted every house in Whitsett will be burned, babes will be taken from their cradles, and white men shot by unknown hands," find no lodgment in the breast of the negroes of the State. Permit me to suggest just two reasons why negroes would not consider such cruel and bloodthirsty methods.

By heredity, by training, and by environments, the negro, of all people, is possibly the least vindictive on the globe. In the past they have shown this as no other race has done. While it is true that there are individual exceptions, still, these no more represent the natural disposition and feelings of the race than did the captains of the tugs, during the recent holocaust in New York harbor, represent the humanity of the white race when they refused and beat from their decks white men and women who in their efforts to escape death, were climbing up their gunwales, but who unfortunately had no money to pay spot cash for the privilege of having their lives saved. The cruel sentiments of the one and the heartless actions of the other shock rather than represent the humane feelings of either race.

While some may not accept such a statement in reference to the characteristics of the negro, still all of your readers should know from observation and otherwise, that the most ignorant and worthless negro recognizes the superior power and advantages of the dominant race on the one hand and our own helpless on the other. The more ignorant class of negroes appreciate and stand in fear of that fact more than the others. If it is admitted that we understand our weakness and inability to cope with the white man, understand our inferiority in numbers, intelligence and wealth—decisive elements in any sort of a contest—there should be no disposition to hold us as a race responsible for the senseless utterances of a mad man or a fool; and of these we unfortunately have our share. We beg therefore to protest that the mouthings of those who talk without thought of the consequences which their utterances may bring upon themselves or their people, be not taken even in the heat of a campaign as voicing the sentiments of the negroes of the State, or of any significent portion of them.

While the negroes understand that the constitutional amendment is an openly expressed and plainly intended discrimination against them, and while all are more or less pained and discouraged by the hostility and bitterness often manifested against them by public speakers and the press, still all will not regard the adoption of the amendment as an unmixed evil. We have been the bone of contention in political campaigns so often that some of us will welcome the adoption of the amendment as an improvement in our material condition and a relief for our wounded and crushed spirits. There are others, however, who regard the adoption as a precursor of still greater deprivation which are now slumbering in the lap of the future. Because of the descrimination which the amendment carries within itself, and of the further deprivations which some fear will follow, many negro voters, where allowed to do so, hope to register a respectful, manly, solemn protest on election day, against what they feel is an injustice about to be imposed upon them, and after their vote has thus been deposited, they will sadly and peaceably gather their families and move to other sections where they hope to find a welcome as cordial as is usually extended to foreigners of every land and clime.

This reference to their probable policy is made solely to show that the plans which the most exercised negroes are now discussing and considering excludes every feature of violence and every feeling of malice.

Nor should there be attributed any purposes of spite; for to those who propose to remain, believing that the adoption of the proposed amendment will conduce to better government, kindlier feelings and a brighter era for all, and to such as may leave the State, the land of our birth, the land hallowed to us by the tears, prayers, and toil of our ancestors, for centuries, the land which holds all that remains of our loved ones of former years, will forever remain sacred.

THE CONTRACT LET.

A Half-Mile Race Track Will be Built at the Fair Grounds--The Work of Improvement to Begin at Once.

The executive committee of the Central Carolina Fair Association held a very satisfactory meeting and transacted some important business last night. The attendance was good, showing the interest of the stockholders in the enterprise.

The contract for building the race track was awarded to Stewart Brothers, of Rock Hill, S. C, who are to begin work at once. It will be a half-mile track and will have a width of forty feet, making it one of the best tracks in the country.

The committee decided to have the thirty-five acres of land purchased surveyed and a deed made for it at once, when the work of making the necessary improvements on the grounds will be begun.

Stock in the Association to the amount of over $6,000 has been subscribed. It is desired to secure about $15,000 of stock.

The date of holding the first fair is being discussed and will probably be decided upon in the near future.

The boys were accompanied by several of their friends and carried along their horse and appartus. They fully expect to bring back the championship belt. The Eagle Juniors, the champion junior reel team in North Carolina, left for Wilmington this morning, going by way of Goldsboro.

A Clean City.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

What can be said of a city which will do as much to advertise it, offer as great inducements to settlers and capital, as that it is clean, free from the causes which produce contagious and deadly diseases? Can the same amount of money which it will require to do this be expended in any other way to bring back such returns and give universal satisfaction?

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING.

The Women Becoming Interested in the Dispensary Fight---They Ask the Men to Vote for it as Against Saloons.

The meeting in the court house last night was fairly well attended, there being quite a number of women and a few men present. Rev. Dr. Smith was made chairman and opened the meeting with prayer.

Rev. L. Johnson read the call for the meeting and welcomed the women who had come out to enter their protest against the reopening of saloons in Greensboro. He said there were three classes who opposed the dispensary--those engaged in the liquor business, those who affect to believe that a dispensary is against our material interests, and those who are ardent advocates of temperance. He added that he was an advocate of the dispensary system, not because it was what he wanted, but because it was preferable to the saloon system, both from a moral and financial standpoint.

Mr. Johnson stated that he did not believe the time was yet ripe for total prohibition in Greensboro, but that public sentiment for it was stronger than when the dispensary was opened.

Rev. Dr. Smith followed in a few remarks in which he emphasized the great difference between a dispensary and saloons. The reopening of saloons in Greensboro, he said, would give a blow to religion and morality from which they would not recover in twenty years. He stated that, since the dispensary cuts off three-fourths of the allurements of the liquor traffic, an observant person cannot fail to see the decrease in drinking and the improvement in morals.

The women present signed a petition, saying a return to the saloon system would be a public calamity, and asking the men of the county to vote for the dispensary as against saloons.

AYCOCK HAS SPOKEN 85 TIMES

BUT HAS LOST ONLY TEN POUNDS

Has Spoken in Every County West of Greensboro Except Two and Will Now go to the Central and Eastern Sections—The Wild Words of a Wild Populist—Mr. Cameron Starts for China—Crop Conditions in this State.

Special Correspondence of the Telegram.

Raleigh, July 10.—It will give some idea of the arduousness of a North Carolina political campaign to say that Charles B. Aycock, the Democracy's gallant nominee for governor, has made 85 speeches thus far. He told me so yesterday, while he was here for an hour or two. It was his first visit to Raleigh in a month or more. He said: "I am very much pleased with the conditions in western North Carolina. I have spoken in every county west of Greensboro except Clay and Polk. In several counties I have spoken twice. Such a campaign is enormous labor, especially in view of the intense heat. My speeches will now be in central North Carolina, and I will get to the extreme east in Carteret, Onslow and Jones. I believe in working and speaking until the very day of the election and two thousand more votes will be made by this course" Mr. Aycock looks well. He says he feels so and has lost only ten pounds in weight.

Since last Friday much interest has been expressed as to what the government's crop and weather report would have to say. The intense heat, (100 degrees and above a day), for four days, has done damage. The report says:

With some few exceptions the reports of crop correspondents for the week ending last night, were generally favorable, indicating weather conditions suitable on the whole for both farm work and the growth of crops. The past six days were characterized by very high temperatures, abundance of sunshine, and no rain except a few very light local showers. These conditions gave farmers good opportunity to clean crops of grass and weeds, and much was accomplished, but the heat became so intense the latter part of the week, when maximum temperatures exceeding 100 degrees generally occurred, as to make it impossible to work in the fields during the latter part of the day. Over many central and eastern counties where the rainfall last week was not especially abundant, drought is beginning to injure crops, and the ground has become too hard to work. In the west, however, the dry period has not been of sufficient duration to enable all fields to be cleaned, where, moreover, many lowland crops have become so foul that it is almost impossible to remove weeds and grass without injury to the crops themselves. Farmers are very busy laying by crops, and the scarcity of labor is considerably felt.

Old corn is suffering from drought, as well as that on stiff soil, and on uplands where it is beginning to fire badly; damage from chinch bugs is reported from counties. The corn crop on the whole looks very thrifty and promising, is generally in silk and tassel, and appears to be earing well; the bulk of the crop has been laid by, except in the west where much is quite small; lowland corn has recovered somewhat from damage by excessive rains. Cotton has been greatly benefited by warm days and nights, which have caused rapid growth, good color, and increasing abundance of bloom; fruiting is taking place. There was very little complaint of lice on cotton this week; some fields in the sothwest are still very grassy. Tobacco is late in north central portion, where topping has just begun, and is somewhat uneven elsewhere; it is suffering from drought and firing in Johnston and a few other counties. In general tobacco appears to have made good growth; cutting has commenced in six eastern counties, Martin, Green, Duplin, Carteret, Onslow, and Wayne, and some was cured. Peanuts, rice, sweet potatoes and peas now need rain. Wheat is practically all housed; threshing continues. A few spring oats remain uncut in the extreme west. Early apples, peaches, melons and blackberries are coming into market in abundance.

The Raleigh baseball team has secured four new players from Baltimore, one of these being Horne who was a pitcher for the Maryland University team.

John E. Fowler, Populist, ex-congressman from the third district, is the wildest talking fusionist seen in these parts lately. He said to me that the constitutional amendment would be defeated by at least 40,000. He added to this the statement that the Populists would carry Sampson county by a larger majority than ever before. He went on to say that the local Democratic lawyer in whom the Populists had the most confidence said the amendment would disfranchise white men. Charles B. Aycock, coming up at the moment, his attention was called to what Fowler said. Aycock said the lawyer in question would vote the Democratic ticket and for the amendment. Mr. Fowler thereupon said, "I heard him say not long ago, when he was drunk, that he wouldn't support the amendment." At this statement by Mr. Fowler everybody laughed.

Duncan Cameron, son of the late Gen. Francis H. Cameron, of Raleigh, left today for China where he has been in business for ten years. He was called home by the death of his father at Richmond. Francis H Cameron, his brother is in the regular cavalry in the Philippines and expects to go to China with a battalion of his regiment.

Charles Price and J. W. Shaw, of counsel for the Southern and Seaboard Air Line railways were at the corporation commission office yesterday to see what exceptions they should file to the recent assessment of their railways.

Rewards for the Salvation of Americans.

Washington, July 9.—Minister Wit has cabled to Sheng, the director general of imperial posts at Shanghai, and to the viceroy of Nanking, a request that they take steps to have it made known in Pekin and vicinity that heavy rewards will be paid by the American people for the salvation of the people in the legations.

The minister did not make this representation upon the authorization of the United States government, but upon many statements that had been made to him by prominent American citizens. He was approached yesterday by some ladies, friends and relatives of some of the people who were with Minister Conger when the outbreak occurred, beseeching him to offer rewards which they would pay, to any one who would help the beseiged.

SIGHT, HINDSIGHT, FORESIGHT

The actions of many people in regard to the use of glasses would lead the informed to believe that their eyes are located in the back of their heads, because they never look into the future. In eye use and abuse they go year after year with never a look ahead or a thought for the ills neglect will bring. They cling to the old, foolish, erroneous idea that it is best to put off the use of glasses until forced to put them on. They wait until their vision is so deteriated that even proper glasses cannot entirely restore it to its proper acuteness, when, if taken in time, glasses would give the same easy, restful vision enjoyed in younger days.

SITUATION MAY BE BETTER.

PRINCE CHING TO THE RESCUE.

The Capture of Pekin the Key to the Situation—The Empress Dowager is Far From Dead—Prince Tuan Proposes to Retake Tien-Tsin and Taku—Rumors of Collossal Chinese Armies Make Soldiers and Officers Nervous.

Associated Press.

London, July 10, 3:25 a. m.—With the foreigners in Pekin probably safe amid civil war, with Prince Ching on their side, with the powers united and their forces constantly increasing, the outlook in China is now rather more hopeful than it has been for a month past. It appears from the cautious statement given out by Taotai Sheng, in Shanghai, that the reason the heavy guns bearing on the legations at Pekin were not used is that Prince Ching, who is served by 10,000 troops, seized all the artillery ammunition. Sheng likewise intimates that Yung Lu, commander-in-chief of the Northern army, is associated with Prince Ching in opposing Prince Tuan's ferocious designs and dictatorial ambition. Sheng, who appears to be the sole Shanghai conduit of Pekin news, cheers the foreign consuls by these confidential communications, buttakes excessive precautions to prevent the Chinese from thinking him friendly to the foreigners. The feeling of unrest in the southern and central provinces continues. The members of the official class in those provinces strive to remain neutral with leaning toward the foreigners, until they shall see whether the moderate or extreme factions will win in Pekin. Prince Ching seems to be standing for the dynasty and the old order against Prince Tuan's inordinate ambition.

From a foreign view point, the capture of Pekin is the key to the situation, as there is a fear, according to the Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent, that delay now means 100 recruits for the Boxers for every soldier of the allies in the land. Two couriers arrived at Tien-Tsin on July 1, from Pekin. One brought a letter from Sir Claude MacDonald, the British minister, to the same effect as that previously received from Sir Robert Hart. The couriers confirm the report of the death of Baron Ketteler. They say that Prince Ching is doing his utmost to protect the foreigners, but that the native feeling against the whites is strong. Two high officials opposed to the Boxers are reported by the couriers to have been assasinated. Sir Claude MacDonald's letter is dated four days earlier than that of Sir Robert Hart.

A dispatch to a news agency here, dated Tien-Tsin, July 2, says: "The Empress Dowager, so far from being dead, is actively striving to prevent the factions fighting. Prince Ching has informed her that he would rather lose his head than be constantly obliged to warn her of the consequences of the prolongation of the present anarchy. Prince Tuan is quite willing that Ching should be decapitated, but the Dowager Empress will not allow this. Prince Tuan has decided that he will take full responsibility. He purposes to retake Tien-Tsin and Taku. Outside of Pekin, except in the Pe-Chili and Shang Tung country, the people are supremely indifferent."

However, all this may be, the allies at Tien-Tsin are having an exceedingly unpleasant time. The last engagement of which news has come through occurred on July 6. The Chinese artillery opened at dawn. Their fire was more accurate and their ammunition better, the shells exploding with precision and setting fire to several buildings. Her Majesty's steamship Terrible's guns again quieted the Chinese, who, again shifting their artillery, re-opened the attack in the afternoon, but a thunderstorm breaking, the Chinese suddenly quit. The allies immediately attacked and and drove the Chinese from their works but lost 30 killed or wounded in so doing. The non-combatants are leaving Tien-Tsin, and the opinion of a minority favors the military leaving also. Stories of colossal Chinese armies gathering continue to worry not only the rank and file, but the commanders, who admit the uncertainty of reconnoissances and the complete absence of an effective intelligence department. Chinese information is received with extreme distrust.

It is obvious that though there are many thousands of Chinese camped by the guns, nothing can be done at present except to await the arrival of reenforcements. The rainy season has set in and this makes going into the interior most difficult. The country between Pekin and Tien-Tsin in other years has been frequently flooded. River transportation is almost impossible and the railway is practically nonexistent and must be entirely rebuilt Military opinion is unanimous that if the legislations did not need relief, it would be foolish to attempt to advance before September.

JAPAN READY TO PUT 22,000 MEN IN THE FIELD.

London, July 10.—Baron Hayishi, being asked by a representative of The Daily Chronicle. "Do you know that Japan has now been allowed a free hand to settle the trouble?" replied: "I do not understand so, but I know that Japan is quite willing to do all in her power to bring the rising to an end, along with the other powers. Japan is ready to put 22,000 men into the field."

BOWSER GOES OVER THE FALLS.

In His Strange Craft, the Foolkiller, He Goes Through the Whirlpool Rapids at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 9.—Peter Nissen, of Chicago, or Mr. Bowser, as he styles himself, went through the whirlpool rapids of the Niagara river this afternoon in the presence of about 10,000 people, in his craft, the Foolkiller. The boat was towed to a rock about one mile above the rapids, and secured. The point was difficult to reach by officials from either shore who might have been disposed to interfere with the much advertised adventure.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Mr. Bowser was seen on his boat. A little later James LaBland pulled up in a row boat, and towed the Foolkiller with Bowser aboard into the current. At 3:30 the start was commenced, but the fickle eddies kept the Foolkiller drifting about until 4:50, when she got into the whirlpool current and started for the final plunge. Passing under the cantilever bridge, the boat took on the speed of an express train. Bowser threw his oar from him and waved his cap. The crowd saw the craft rise on the crest of a smooth wave and then dive into the leaping spray and disappear.

The strange craft turned over and over like a top, rolling and plunging until it passed a bend in the river and most perilous part of the waves until submerged again on the verge of the whirlpool. Shooting into the whirlpool the Foolkiller swung around and went down like a fishing bob but rose again quickly. For the next 55 minutes Bowser and his boat circled around the whirlpool. Shortly before 6 o'clock the Foolkiller was carried out to the rapids and a line was thrown by Bowser to a man on shore who hauled him in. His first question was: "How is that for Bowser?" The Foolkiller is 20 feet long and four feet deep, and is made of 2 inch pine with four air-tight compartments. The keel weights 1,250 pounds.

STUDYING OUT OF DOORS.

What Is Being Done for School Children in Washington.

Elizabeth V. Brown tells the readers of St. Nicholas about the outdoor studies that are pursued by the schoolchildren of Washington, D. C. The children of the national capital are going to Paris in large numbers—by photographs. Perhaps you would like to see a few of them before they set out on their long journey. Several hundred pictures have been taken, representing all the grades, and showing the pupils at both their indoor and out-of-door work. Do you go to an out-of-door school? If you come to Washington, you will find classes studying plants and animals, history, government, geography, science and art, and carrying on this work in the parks, fields, woods, libraries, public buildings or art galleries.

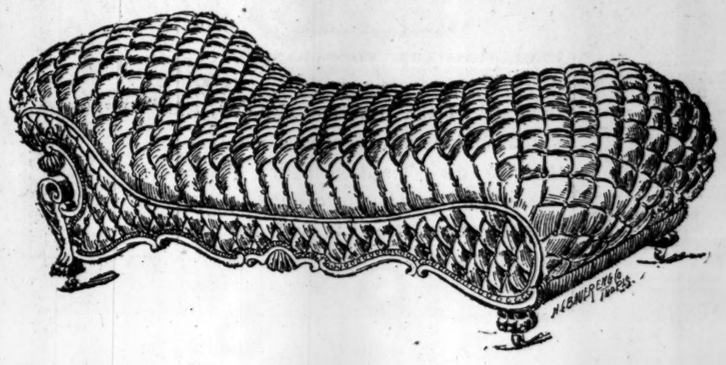
Visitors from different parts of the United States are frequently surprised in the course of their sightseeing, to come across these groups of children, busy with notebooks and sketch-blocks. Furthermore, at any hour of the day a street car full of happy children is apt to speed past a group of waiting passengers on the corner, branches and flowers, collecting nets and cases, baskets and hammers, all telling of a day in the fields. Perhaps this may seem more like play than work, but in all of these ways these children are cultivating their own powers by observing things, doing things, gathering experiences and information with which to interpret the knowledge stored up in books.

All the photographs for the exposition are intended to show children getting the experiences which time are to lead to book learning.

The wee folks of the kindergarten are sent to work in their garden, where early in the spring they planted flower seeds, pease, beans, corn and radishes. Though too young to study botany with a great big B, even these babies are studying plant growth.

At the Smithsonian Institution and its next-door neighbor, the National Museum, the children spend many hours among things which constantly interest and delight them. On Saturdays many of them go alone to see again the objects which they studied with their teachers during the school week.

Couches



Probably here is being displayed one of the finest lines of couches in the city. They are in leather, pantasile and velours. In fact everything that is admirable in couches. You have only to see them and hear the prices to know that you buy for less here than elsewhere. No big salaried officers to pay here. My business is conducted on a money-saving basis, which means immense values for little money. While in the store ask to see Morris chairs, Rockers, Iron beds and Felt Mattresses.

CRONJE AT ST. HELENA.

He is at Longwood, Napoleon's Old Home.

Cronje, the lion of South Africa, has arrived at St. Helena and occupies the prison of Napoleon, once the master of the world.

The French are loud in their sympathy for the gallant Cronje, and they are furious, almost beyond expression, that the British should put the rough old Boer farmer on a level with the great Napoleon.

To an impartial outsider the situation has some amusing features, but it will not decrease the accumulation of anti-British sentiment that is stored up in various parts of the world.

Sending Cronje and his men to St. Helena puts escape entirely out of the question, as the Boers have not even a ship to send after him. The island is 1,200 miles from the nearest African shore, about 2,000 miles from the Transvaal and many thousand miles from anywhere else.

Longwood is a long, low, rambling building. It was originally a barn of the East India Company. It was then converted into a residence and is really a comfortable country house. It is situated, however, in one of the dampest, coldest and most inaccessible parts of the island. It was for the last named quality that it was chosen as a residence for Napoleon.

The Emperor, who had been used to the dry and cheerful climate of France and Southern Europe, complained bitterly of the dampness of Longwood. He demanded one thousand weight of firewood a month, whereupon Sir Hudson Lowe, the Governor, remarked that he only used three hundred weight himself, and refused any more. There were long and angry discussions between Sir Hudson and Napoleon's suite on the subject of firewood.

Longwood can be watched all the time from Plantation House, the residence of the Governor, and commanded by guns from the same place.

It is not likely that Cronje will make the same complaint about cold and hardship as Napoleon, because he has been used to the rough, hard life of a farmer. What worries him about St. Helena is that it makes escape impossible, of which he had a pretty good chance at Cape Town.

Cronje will receive the same treatment from the British soldiers as Napoleon did, in order to make the strange chain of historical repetition complete. Napoleon was not allowed to go anywhere about the island without having a red-coated soldier follow him or the members of his suite without a special pass from the Governor. The officer in charge of the guard was instructed by the Governor to drop in "as if by accident" whenever Napoleon was seen conversing with a stranger outdoors and hear everything said. This treatment really killed Napoleon, for he refused to take exercise when subject to such spying, and this brought on the illness from which he died.

Travelling in Java.

A man who has been travelling in Java thus writes about the Dutch colonial railways. He says:—"Trains are used in Java, not on account of their speed, but on account of the long distances one has to cover. If you are in a hurry and you haven't more than five miles to go—walk. You may find some difficulty in keeping up to the train if it is going down a stiff grading but you will more than make this up on the flat, and you'll romp past it on coming to the slightest ascent. It is a solemn fact," he continues, "that once in the course of a mile walk along a highway running parallel with the railway line I caught up to and passed a 'snell' (express train). Toward the end of the walk I entered a shop to purchase some cigars and only after I had been in the shop ten minutes did the train again pass me."—Pinang Gazette.

THE NEGRO AND THE AMENDMENT.

We publish a statement from Prof. J. B. Dudley, president of the colo ed Agricultural and Mechanical College, regarding the incendiary utterances of negroes, followed by some thoughts on the negro's relations to the amend ment. The statement is dignified, thoughtful and interesting. There is not in it the bitterness that might reasonably be expected. All thoughtful white men look upon this question in the right way—that the negro, owing to his very ignorance and weakness as a race and the consequent ease with which designing men use him, is unfit to vote. By what process he reached this condition is unimportant. Recognizing his unfitness, they take the position that it is best for him no less than the white man—best for the body politic—that his privilege of voting be withdrawn till such time as he becomes better fitted. These are the facts in the case, and properly-thinking white men do not recognize them in hatred for the negro, but in sorrow and pity. But they are facts and must be dealt with. It is for the best of all. The apparent bitterness of the campaign is inseparable from it. We deplore it, but it cannot be helped.

As to holding the negroes as a race responsible for the foolish utterances of individuals, we do not. The mass of the negroes do not hold such sentiments, but many of their leaders do, and unfortunately, the race can be led by designing black and white rascals against its own interest any time, and so the necessity arises for relieving them of the power to do harm. The foolish Wharton was ignorant, and should not require much notice, but for the fact that he probably got his idea from a more incendiary—because less ignorant—man like the scoundrel Butler, or some educated negro in some other section. We can pass over the foolish utterance of a fool like Wharton, but what are we to do when negroes high in authority in the church advise the race to buy guns and prepare to shoot, as a negro Bishop did?

All the Radical talk abont liberty and manhood is rot. Nature's decree is that the fittest survives, and it follows, therefore, that the fittest rules. By all competent authority the white man is fittest in the South, and all the efforts of Federal bayonets, all the incendiary utterances of office holders and seekers, and all the constitutions that can be set up cannot prevent it. Men cannot legislate successfully against nature. Prof. Dudley recognizes this in a frank, manly way, and with dignity bows to the inevitable. His position is not cringing. It challenges respect. When his race ceases, in its ignorance and weakness, to be the designing prey of white and black incendiaries, it will be in a position to challenge the same respect. They can never cease to be such prey of themselves. The white man in his strength and wisdom must do the work for them, for his own sake and for theirs. When the smoke and heat die away both races will understand this as they do not now. As for the amendment being a discouragement, Prof. Dudley is mistaken. No privilege will be withdrawn from the educated negro, and it will be a stimulus to the young to educate themselves. Voting with the negro has never been anything but a sentiment anyway. He never asked to vote and he has never cast a free ballot, and outside of the "leaders" he will not be much concerned about the matter

DECLINING THE VICE-PRESIDENCY.

We have recently had a striking contrast of the different manner in which two men may decline a nomination for the Vice-Presidency. There was talk a long time before the Philadelphia convention that Roosevelt would be nominated by the Republican gathering. The first time he heard it mentioned, he quietly said no, he didn't want it, and every time some little obscure suggestion was again made, out he would fly again with his statement. Finally he went to Washington to beg the leaders not to put it upon him, when as yet there had not been the slightest danger. Here, it was said, Mr Hanna promptly acquiesced in his ardent desires. But this was not enough; he went home and continued to beg that his name be not used Then he started to Philadelphia, jabbing his head out the window at every station and singing out that he could not take it. Perhaps but for his persistent declinations he would not have been thought of much. Arriving at the convention, he made himself the most conspicuous man there by going about the hall in a rough-rider hat and conspicuous suit—all the time declining. There did develop at the convention an overwhelming desire for his nomination, yet he continued to protest and haggle, when at any time a firm word would have stopped the whole thing. But his inordinate vanity withheld that word. He wanted to see the convention beseeching him. He wanted to appear the most popular man in the country. He wanted to be besought as the only man who could save his party. He knew all the time he would take it. Platt had ordered it. Yet he wore his tongue out declining it.

David Bennett Hill was mentioned as the probable vice-presidential nominee of the Kansas City convention. He said nothing, and went quietly to the convention. He didn't wear a rough-rider's hat, nor did he do any aisle-strutting. As great a demand for him developed as did for Roosevelt at Philadelphia. Still he did no posing. When the time came, like a man and a sensible American citizen, he got up and told the convention that he could not accept, and that was the end of it, and everybody knew it.

ON STREET CARS.

A New Yorker Figures Out Some Interesting Facts.

A New Yorker with a statistical turn of mind has been figuring out how much an average person living in New York spends on the street cars. You would not think unless you followed his figures pretty closely, that for a whole working day each week you are occupied in traveling around New York, and yet there are comparatively few engaged in business downtown who devote less than one day out of the seven in getting to their places of business and home again.

There is a man living in Harlem whose place of business is in lower Broadway. Whether he goes downtown by the cable car or on the trolley, or whether the "L" railroad is his choice, the best part of an hour is consumed in getting to his destination. If he is an indoor man and sticks in his office all day, he will do no more riding on the street cars until the time comes for him to return home, and then the best part of another hour will be used in accomplishing this.

Taking this example of a man whose whole traveling time is solely occupied in getting to his business and back again, we will assume, to be strictly within the line that the journey there and back can be completed inside of an hour and a half, although business men and women who get downtown and back in this time generally consider that they are living in easily accessible spots. They will be astonished to hear what the statistician has to say about the time they fritter away in traveling.

An hour and a half a day multiplied by six working days means an eight-hour day lost once every week of six days. It means four and a half days lost every month, or almost eight weeks a year.

Yet the cost of the two months' trip on the street cars that the majority of New Yorkers engage in business take every year does not amount to a very high figure after all. At a nickel a journey the car fare only amounts to 60 cents for a week's trip, or a little over $31 for the whole years' traveling expenses. In these days of vacationtaking there are very few people who can travel constantly for two whole months every day, and manage it on $31.

But the example that the statitician quotes is only a mild one. There are the people who come from Brooklyn, East New York, Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, Staten Island, etc., who consume much more than one and a half hours a day in getting into New York. For them the time they spend in traveling is proportionately greater and much of their lives is spent getting to the city. However, the people who, above all others live their lives in the street cars and who spend more time than they do in their waking hours in their homes, are to be found right here in New York. The numerous trades and callings that call for journeys up and down town the livelong day are to be numbered by the score, and the people engaged in them go to swell the number who live the best part of their lives on the street cars.

Young Women Learn Carpentering.

"Tradition says that woman cannot sharpen lead pencils," said President Jesse of the Missouri State University, recently. "Four women at our school are overturning that pleasant bit of fiction by becoming first-class carpenters.

"You know we anticipated the recommendations of the Teachers' Association at Milwaukee regarding shop work and horticulture for the common schools. When the report was made the Missouri State University had already introduced those things in the summer course for teachers of public schools. Four of the women teachers are now doing shop work at Columbia."

"How do they succeed?" was asked.

"Very well, indeed," he answered, enthusiastically. They do not lift any heavy timbers, but the things they do are the same as those required in actual work, only on smaller pieces of wood. I was in the shop the other day and one of the young women gave me a skillful exhibition with the plane. I think the tendency of the times is to introduce shop work into the public schools, and these young women will be prepared to teach it."

THE FAITHFUL DOG.

How He Saved the Lives of a Party of Prospectors.

Last winter a party of prospectors were camped on the Valdes one of Alaska's great glaciers. Day after day they had worked their way forward, death disputing every foot with them until it was decided that the main party should remain in camp and two of their number, accompanied only by a dog, should endeavor to find a trail which would lead away from the glacier.

For days the two men wandered, until nature succumbed and they lay down, weary and exhausted. Their faithful companion clung to them and the warmth of his body was grateful, as they crouched low with the bitter ice-laden wind howling about them.

Their scanty stock of provisions was well-nigh exhausted, when one of them suggested sending the dog back to camp. This was a forlorn hope, but their only one. Quickly writing a few words on a leaf torn from a book, they made it fast around the dog's neck and encouraged him to start back on the trail.

The sagacious animal did not appear to understand, but after repeated efforts they persuaded him to start, and he was ooon swallowed up in the snow, the mist and the storm.

Two days and nights passed, during which the men suffered untold agonies. On the evening of the third day, when all hope had gone and they were becoming resigned to their fate, out of the blinding and drifting snow bounded the faithful dog, and close behind him came ready hands to minister to their wants.

Amateur Dressmakers' Memos.

Stockinet and good rubber dress shields can be washed in warm soap suds, pulled into shape and dried by hanging them in a window.

Bent whalebones, the genuine article, are straightened by soaking them in boiling water for a few moments and then ironing them straight.

A creamy ecru shade, now so fashionable, can be given to white lace after washing it by putting strained coffee in the rinsing water until the right color is obtained.

Lace that has grown too yellow from age can be whitened by covering with soapsuds and allowing it to stand in the sun.

Wanted a Doctor.

"One day last week," said the doctor, "I was just sitting down to dinner, when I received a call from a little five-year-old girl, whose father lives in the next block. She was out of breath, but she managed to gasp out for me to come up to the house.

"Thinking it must be something serious that should cause the little girl to be sent for me, I seized my medicine case and hurried off.

" 'Who is sick?' I asked, picking her up in my arms and carrying her, so that I might get along faster.

" 'Elizabeth,' she answered.

" 'Is she very sick?' I asked.

" 'I think it is typhoid fever,' she replied.

"This gave me a scare and quickened my steps. We were not long in arriving at the house, and I was surprised that no one met us.

" 'This way,' cried the little girl, seizing my hand.

"Allowing myself to be led along, I soon found myself in a bedroom by the side of a doll's cradle, in which reposed a doll with a red rag tied around its throat.

"I was dazed for a moment, and came to only when I heard the little girl inquiring anxiously, if I thought Elizabeth was going to die."

THE CABINET IN CONSULTATION.

Developments in the Chinese Situation Considered Yesterday—Re-Enforcements Cannot be Sent from the United States Speedily Enough, So a Levy Will be Made Upon Our Forces in the Philippines—MacArthur Again Called Upon to Relieve the Situation.

Washington, July 9.—Developments in the Chinese situation were considered by members of the cabinet at consultation held to-day. The participants explained their conference by saying that it was the first opportunity that had occurred lately to gather as many as four of the cabinet members for consultation. Results followed in the share of renewed activity in the dispatch of re-enforcements to China. Admiral Kempff's cablegram, giving his estimate of the amount of force he regarded as necessary to represent the United States properly in the movement upon Pekin, was carefully considered. An agreement was reached to say nothing about the admiral's figures, on the ground that it would be impolitic to make our needs known to the Chinese in the first instance, and also because of a desire on the part of this government to avoid being in the position of appearing to set up a standard for the other powers in this matter, it is understood, however, that the pith of Admiral Kempff's communication is the necessity of speedy re-inforcements, if quick action is desired, and, on the latter point there is no dissenting voice among the cabinet officers. If reinforcements are to be gotten to China speedily, they cannot come from the United states. According to the schedule already in execution only one steamer with two batallions of one regiment, has started from San Francisco and the next steamer is not to start before the 15th of the present month. This is about the best time that can be made with the present facilities and at that rate many weeks, and even months must elapse before the 6,000 additional troops ordered East Saturday, can be landed there. This state of affairs caused a revival of the report that General MacArthur is to be again called upon to relieve the situation by dispatching from the Philippines at least two regiments in addition to the Ninth Infantry, already sent to Taku. It was said that the necessary orders had been given looking to a replacement of the troops withdrawn from General MacArthur's command from the force going out from the United States. None of the cabinet officers would admit or deny this, so it gained some measure of credence. Unless Japan is left to do all the fighting in the immediate future, General MacArthur must respond to this demand. By drawing upon the Philipine forces at least a month could be saved in landing troops in China.

Secretary Long this afternoon showed that the navy was responding to the call for re-enforcements by ordering 500 marines to be assembled from the several navy yards and hurried to China. It is significant that these are the first military forces to be sent directly from the United States to China without instructions to stop at Nagasaki for orders. The marines will make up a force of 750 men, as the department already has given orders for the equipment of 250 marines for similar service. They will be sent out on the first army transport available for service.

The minister from China called at the State Department today. He came for information. There is a suggestion in the air that a perfect understanding by Secretary Hay has been brought through the acceptance of at least one most important condition. What this condition is connot be learned, though it is suspected to relate to territorial acquisition.

Any man can get through the hot season a great deal more comfortably with light weight tan or black vici shoes and thin, light weigh underwear. We can supply you with both at very moderate prices.

WISE OR FOOLISH.

Story of a Boy Who Would Not Be Scared.

They called him Tommy the Wise because he was so very foolish, and when he walked into the room without knocking the man who had rang for a messenger boy nearly had a fit.

"Great huckelberries!" he said, "are you the only boy they had left to send me?"

Tommy nodded his head.

"I don't believe I'd dare to send a valuable package by such a stupid-looking boy as you. I tell you what you do. Just you run back to the bosses and tell them to send me a boy who knows whether he's asleep or awake."

Without a word Tommy turned slowly around and shuffled toward the door.

"I declare," said the man to himself, "I don't believe that boy would know it if a house fell on him. I wonder if there isn't any way to make him look human? I say, boy," he called out just as Tommy's hand was laid on the door knob; "come back here!"

Once more Tommy shuffled back like a machine with no more expression in his face than a wooden Indian would have.

"See here, boy," said the man, taking up a little box, "I've made up my mind to let you deliver, this package, but beware! You want to be very careful of this box. If you don't do just as I say you are liable to be turned into sausage meat. It's to be delivered to the Man in the Moon."

("You want to be careful of this box.")

Tommy nodded his head and the man seemed puzzled for just a minute, and then he went on.

"You are to take the box out to the end of this street to where it runs into the bluff and you whistle three times this way," and here the man gave a peculiar whistle. "See if you can do it."

Tommy puckered up his lips and tried it.

"That's pretty near it," said the man. "It will do, anyhow. You believe in fairy tales don't you?"

Tommy nodded his head.

"Well, you're going to see one now. When you get to the end of this street and whistle three times that and press on the lid of this box at the same time, a great twisty green dragoon with a crinkled tail will come sliding down out of the sky and land right in front of you.

Tommy nodded his head. "Well, it won't take but about 20 minutes for you to reach the moon unless you get lost on the way, and in that case you may never get there, but just keep flying through space forever. You'll know when you reach the moon because the great, twisty dragoon will reach its head around and snap at you but it always has to make two snaps before it gets a bite of anything, and when it snaps the first time you want to jump right off and step on its toes. That will make it howl, and then while its mouth is open you want to stick its bristly tail in its mouth and hook it fast till you come out again. You'll remember all that, will you?"

Tommy nodded his head, and this time the man didn't stop to think. He was getting pink in the face, and went right on, seeming to be very much in earnest now.

"At the door of the moon you'll find the King of the Cats playing sad but lively tunes on a flageolet. This cat lives on nothing but boys, and if it isn't hungry it will take you in to see the Man in the Moon. If it is hungry it will take the box in, and you can guess what it will do to you unless you whistle three times, and you know its pretty hard to whistle if you are scared, isn't it?"

Tommy nodded.

"Can you do it?"

Tommy nodded.

"Well, then, here's the box," holding it out and looking at Tommy curiously.

Tommy reached out his hand and took the box, then started for the door just in the same way he would with any ordinary message, while the man sat down in a chair, looking for a moment almost as stupid as Tommy.

"Well, I'll be jumped on and mashed flat," said the man, half aloud. "But this beats me. I'll have to give up! Here, boy," he called once more, "come back a minute!"

Tommy had the door open, but he closed it again and came back

"Were you actually going out to the end of this street and whistle three times, as I told you?"

Tommy nodded his head.

"Well, you are a wonder, and I guess I'll trust you with the message. You take that box to 718 Twelfth street and give it to the young lady to whom this note is addressed. Tell her there is to be an answer, and when you bring it back I'll give you a dollar, besides your regular pay. Now, go on, and let me get over it! You've shocked my nerves!"

He handed Tommy a note, and that young gentleman once more started for the door. This time he was not called back, and he got out in the hall and closed the door behind him: Then a wonderful thing happened! Tommy winked! There was no mistake about it, he actually winked! His eyelid came down over his dull-looking blue eye and his wooden-looking face wrinkled all over he winked so hard. Then he went right away with the message, came back inside half an hour with the answer, got his dollar and came out into the hall with it. When he had the door safely closed behind him he bit the dollar to see if it was lead, looked it over carefully to see if it was plugged, read the date then put it in a funny pocket hidden some place inside his vest, down the back of his neck. Then, and not until then, he winked again, and he not only winked, but smiled as well. Actually smiled! His smile spread and spread till it almost reached his ears, and then it had to stop.

THE YOUNGEST SHRINER.

Not Yet Twenty-two Years Old, but Is on the High Road of Masonry.

The subject of this sketch, Mr. John S. Curtis of Ludlow, Penn., claims to be the youngest Shriner and Thirty-second Degree Mason in the United States. This is equivalent to saying that he is the youngest Shriner in the world, the prerequisites of membership in the countries of Europe being such that no applicant for the order can pass through the councils of Masonry which are in amity with and recognized by the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine in the brief space of time covered in conferring the degrees upon this applicant. Mr. Curtis is not yet 22 years of age. His application for Masonic membership was presented in May, 1899, when he became of age, and he was made a Thirty-second Degree Mason of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite at Pittsburg Consistory on Nov. 24 of the same year. On the 13th of December he was made a Noble of the Mystic Shrine at Zem Zem Temple, Erie, Penn. Zem Zem is the name of a famous Arabic well in Mecca. The Temple by this name has been organized nine years, and now has a membership of 598, claiming to have made the greatest gain of any Temple in the United States during the past five years. To the Imperial Council, which meets at Washington in May, Mr. Curtis has recently been named as a delegate.—Leslie's Weekly.

The two little city girls had been spending a day in the country; they were telling their mammas about it.

"Oh, we did have just the nicest time," said one of them. "We saw two pigs killed and a gentleman buried."

A Brave General.

Gen. Pieter Arnoldus Cronje, called "the Lion of South Africa," who was captured by the British, has the reputation of being not only a brave soldier but one of the ablest of living strategists. His life, like that of President Kruger, has been devoted largely to the service of his country, both in military and civil offices. Although he went into the war holding the nominal rank of a district commandant, while Gen. Joubert is the commandant-general and vice-president, he seems to have been assigned a position of equal importance.

The man who is at the close of his military career was engaged prominently both in the first war of independence and in the Jamieson raid.

At the outbreak of the present war Gen. Cronje established the siege of Mafeking, penning up there the British force under Col. Baden-Powell. He soon took command of the Boer forces at Kimberley, and with the exception of his flying trip to Gen. Joubert at Ladysmith he was on the ground there until captured.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and oth-aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

WE ARE ORIGINATORS:

Not Imitators!

White Delivery Wagons have been a distinguishing mark of the Greensboro Steam Laundry for a number of years. Our customers have learned to "look out for the white wagons."

Competitors have seen fit to imitate our wagons, therefore we deem it wise to make a change.

Our wagons are now in the shop. About May 1st they will come out green, our forme color. In the mean time would respectfullly request our friends and patrons ta BEWARE of the white laundry wagons and see to it that the right driver gets the bundle. To avoid any possible confusion, in future our wagons will be lettered.

A DAY'S HAPPENINGS.

Minor Events Briefly Related--Things Talked About.

Let every white man register tomorrow. If you do not register you will lose your vote.

About fifteen couples enjoyed a drive by moonlight to the Battle Ground last night.

Solicitor A. L. Brooks will speak at Proximity Friday night. The Proximity Band will furnish music.

The registrar is required to be at the polling place only on Saturday, but he can register you on other days.

Let no white man fail to register at once. Don't wait until just before the election, and putthe committee to the trouble of looking you up.

Only ten days more for registration. If you have voted a hundred times before, you cannot vote at the August election unless you register again.

Don't forget to take the children to the lawn party at Mrs. Crawford's this evening. They will be served early, and will no doubt enjoy it greatly.

The Democratic and Republican candidates will begin their joint canvass tomorrow. The first appointment is at Hodgin's Store, in Sumner township.

Mrs. Mary Gainey of Sherwood, Cumberland county, mother of Miss Janie Gainey, of city, died at her home Sunday after an illness of some time. The funeral took place yesterday.

Hon. Locke Craig, of Asheville, is to make a speech here on Tuesday, July 24th. Mr. Craig is one of the most enthusiastic and eloquent Democrats in the State and never fails to draw a large crowd.

Remember the lawn party at Mrs. L. W. Crawford's this evening. The young ladies have devoted a great deal of attention to the arrangements, the weather is perfect, and a pleasant time is in store for all who go.

You will feel like taking a stroll this evening about dusk. Drop in at the lawn party which will be given at Mrs. Crawford's, where you will find music, ices and cake, a pleasant grove, and a company of charming young ladies anxious to serve you.

Auction Sale of Dogs.

The time for paying dog tax has expired and all dogs found roaming around without a tag will be impounded. The officers went on the warpath yesterday and during the day captured fifteen canines. The work will be kept up until all the unlucky dogs are impounded.

Chief Scott is thinking of having an auction sale about Friday, when dog fanciers will have an opportunity of buying blooded stock, half breeds, etc., at bargain counter prices.

RICHARDSON'S EXPLANATION.

He Tells Why 16 to 1 Was Put in the Democratic Platform.

Washington, July 9.—The Post tomorrow will print an interview with Representative Richardson, of Tennessee, who was chairman of the convention at Kansas City, in which he says of the Democratic platform:

"The controlling reason for using the phrase "16 to 1," in the platform, was because some thought that while free silver was not the issue of this year, yet were it omitted, the very fact of omission would give it more prominence and possibly cause it to be discussed more than if it were simply repeated in the platform. The argument was that if it were left out of the platform it would be an issue, but if put in the platform, it would be superseded by the great issue of imperialism."

Will the platform command the support of those who four years ago broke away from the Democratic party?" Mr. Richardson was asked.

"I have been gratified," he answered, "to see that the nominees and the platform have been met with so great favor with the Eastern press. A few have criticised it, but only a few, and the great bulk of the Democratic press is once more to be in line with the party. With this unanimity, I feel quite sure that we can carry enough of the Eastern and Middle States to win the election."

Mr. Richardson plans to remain in Washington for some time and to undertake actively the work of the congressional campaign which will be managed for the Democrats from Washington.

Voluntary Bankruptcy.

Louis Bearman, one of the largest merchants in Reidsville, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities are $13,400 with about $5,800 assets. The schedule was made up by Col. James T. Morehead.
